This is Lafayette . . .

Ours is an old city . . . a city with an interesting history . . . a composite of the old and the new . . . a city of Civil War mansions and magnolia trees . . . of Acadian tradition and modern industrial progress . . . a city of friendly people.

Our school is friendly, too. It is the pulse beat of the students. It is the students . . . the friendly rhythm in their walk . . . the happy laughter in their talk . . . the puzzled looks in physics class . . . the slamming of lockers . . . the determined look of the fullback on receiving the kick-off . . . the contented snore of Junior in fifth hour . . . those last minute gab sessions before class . . . the groan of the bleachers as the student body rises to sing the school loyalty. This is our school . . .

There is a friendly, natural bond linking our school and our community . . . the sharing of problems, of honors, of responsibilities . . . the spirit of cooperation. So, it is with an abiding love and a thankful awareness of all they have meant and will mean to us that we dedicate the LION'S DIN '56 to Lafayette . . . our school and our community.

Situated on the Vermilion River in Lafayette Parish, Lafayette has a 1955 population estimated at 40,000. Both French and English are spoken by many of its citizens.

In addition to being an important oil, transportation, and shipping center, Lafayette

There is a friendly, natural bond

Working constantly for the improvement of the schools of Lafayette Parish, the administration is composed of a group of experienced educators. Pictured at left is Mr. J. C. Landry, Superintendent of Schools. Members of his administrative staff include Mr. Charles Delana, assistant superintendent; Mr. George Armstrong, visiting teacher; Miss Inez Neyland, supervisor of instruction; Dr. Harley Smith, director of special education; Mr. Ray Miles, director of guidance; Miss Estelle Melancon, lunchroom supervisor; Mr. Gladu Dupuis, supervisor of adult education; and Mr. Roy Broussard, superintendent of maintenance.

between our school and our community

The citizens of our community take a vital and active interest in the problems of our school. Combining forces this year, the P.-T. A., the boosters club, and the band parents club made a survey to determine the needs of the school. On the basis of their findings, a budget was drawn up and plans made to finance many of our most urgent needs. Through such projects as gumbo suppers, barbecues, and barn dances, members of the community showed their willingness to support our school.

... and our school

Among the many activities highlighting the work of the school year, two events stand out as being especially important. In September, a testing program, part of an over-all guidance program recently instituted in our schools, provided information on all students. The achievement battery, which was given first, helps teachers evaluate work done in the past and plan work to be done in the future. In addition to these tests, vocational inventories were made to help students determine their vocational preferences. This constituted the first of a continuing accumulation of information on our students.

The second event was the introduction of a new type of report card. The Lafayette Parish Principals' Association worked for two years on information resulting from a survey of all principals in the parish, and formulated three cards—for primary, elementary, and high school levels. Although the cards have been especially well-received, the Association, always ready to progress, has decided to make minor revisions to perfect the card for the coming year.

We Believe

That all of our school administrators, teachers, and pupils should believe in, support, and practice the democratic way of life.

That "all the children of all the people" should be given an opportunity for free education.

That curricula must be planned so that each individual may attain the highest development of which he is capable.

That a curriculum must keep step with progress and growth.

That a child's day-by-day training should provide training for adult life.

That equal opportunities for all children should be provided.

That extra-curricular activities adapted to interest and talents should be provided for all students.

That pupils should select their own leaders within the prescribed standards of eligibility and help to set up their own programs of education.

That an organized program of discipline makes for an abler and happier student body.

That a child's personal equipment, health, safety, ethical character, recreational interests, and intellectual abilities shall be both provided for and guided.

That each child is due to experience some degree of success.

That a child should be prepared and aided to an adjustment to life.

That a faculty should know the complete school program through testing, office records, and personal, home, and parent contacts.

THAT THERE SHOULD BE CLOSE COOPERATION AMONG SCHOOL, COMMUNITY, AND HOMES.

(The philosophy of our school, expressed in this creed, is taken from the student handbook, the LION'S ROAR.)

MR. L. A. BERGER, Principal

The Lion's Din has become one of the most outstanding of high school annuals; to produce it, the editors and sponsor must do untold amounts of work. For their labors they deserve the thanks of students and faculty alike. The book will give pleasure to you who study the pages when they are new and will recall many happy days of youth when in later life you peruse its pages.

Modern classroom methods make learning painless

The day has begun. The halls are quiet but for the sounds echoing from the busy classrooms . . . the rhythm of clacking typewriters fighting the tempo of the band in the auditorium . . . a recitation of Mark Anthony's funeral oration competing with French songs across the hall . . . in the shop the buzz saw drowning out the instructor's voice.

Mingled odors are wafted through the halls . . . a delicious odor of chili from the kitchen . . . a nauseating odor of hydrogen sulphide from the laboratory . . . a throat-burning odor of formaldehyde from the biology class.

In each room, supervising all activities, is a teacher. We are fortunate in having not only a wonderful faculty who teach and guide us in a friendly and understanding way, but also in having the student teachers from Southwestern to assist in our instruction.

Far from the old "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic" is our curriculum. In each department—from Senior English to woodworking—material is presented in an interesting and modern way. It is fun to have visitors discuss fire prevention and narcotics; as a class to visit the Esso plant in Baton Rouge; to drive to Southwestern to observe the radio workshop; to repair electrical appliances in science class; to experience actual office practices in business education classes; to learn to use the sextant in math.

So goes our school day, enjoyably and profitably spent.

Languages encourage friendship around the world

With the help of recordings, skits, movies, and outside speakers, the foreign language department helps students understand modern languages. French and Spanish were selected in terms of their educational and vocational contributions, the extent of their use, and cultural values to be gained by their study.

Pictured below is Mrs. Irene W. Holmes, who teaches French and English. In last year's Acadian Bicentennial celebration, she was cited as one of the outstanding daughters of Acadian descent. She is the author of Louisiana French Folk Songs.

Above, Mrs. B. E. Wortman, who teaches world history as well as Spanish, points out one of the world's trouble spots to her history class.

At left, the French I class prepares for a test under the supervision of a student teacher as Mrs. Holmes observes from the back of the room.

The Spanish I class gets set to watch a film on Mexico.

Miss Grace Jordan reads poetry to her senior English class.

English offers a variety of courses

Often the English department is associated only with the courses in grammar, flavored with a touch of literature. However, it is found to be more complex beneath the surface. As well as general, remedial, and college preparatory courses, this department offers courses in speech, dramatics, and journalism. The many honors won by LSH students in this field are proof of the success of the department in developing effective readers, writers, and speakers.

Mrs. S. J. Durand, at left, conducts a lesson on camellias, showing the many varieties of this flower to her eleventh grade classes.

At right, tenth grade English students Arlen Laughlin and Barbara Drobish plan a one-act play in a lesson on creative dramatics.

Mrs. J. L. Love, pictured at left, teaches a lesson on word-study, connected with a Sherlock Holmes story.

Mr. George Porter lectures to an American history class, introducing a unit on World War I.

Social studies stress the

The Social Studies department operates on the theory that high school students are citizens to-day, as well as citizens of tomorrow. Most of the students leave their courses in American history, world history, and civics with a better understanding of the workings of democracy.

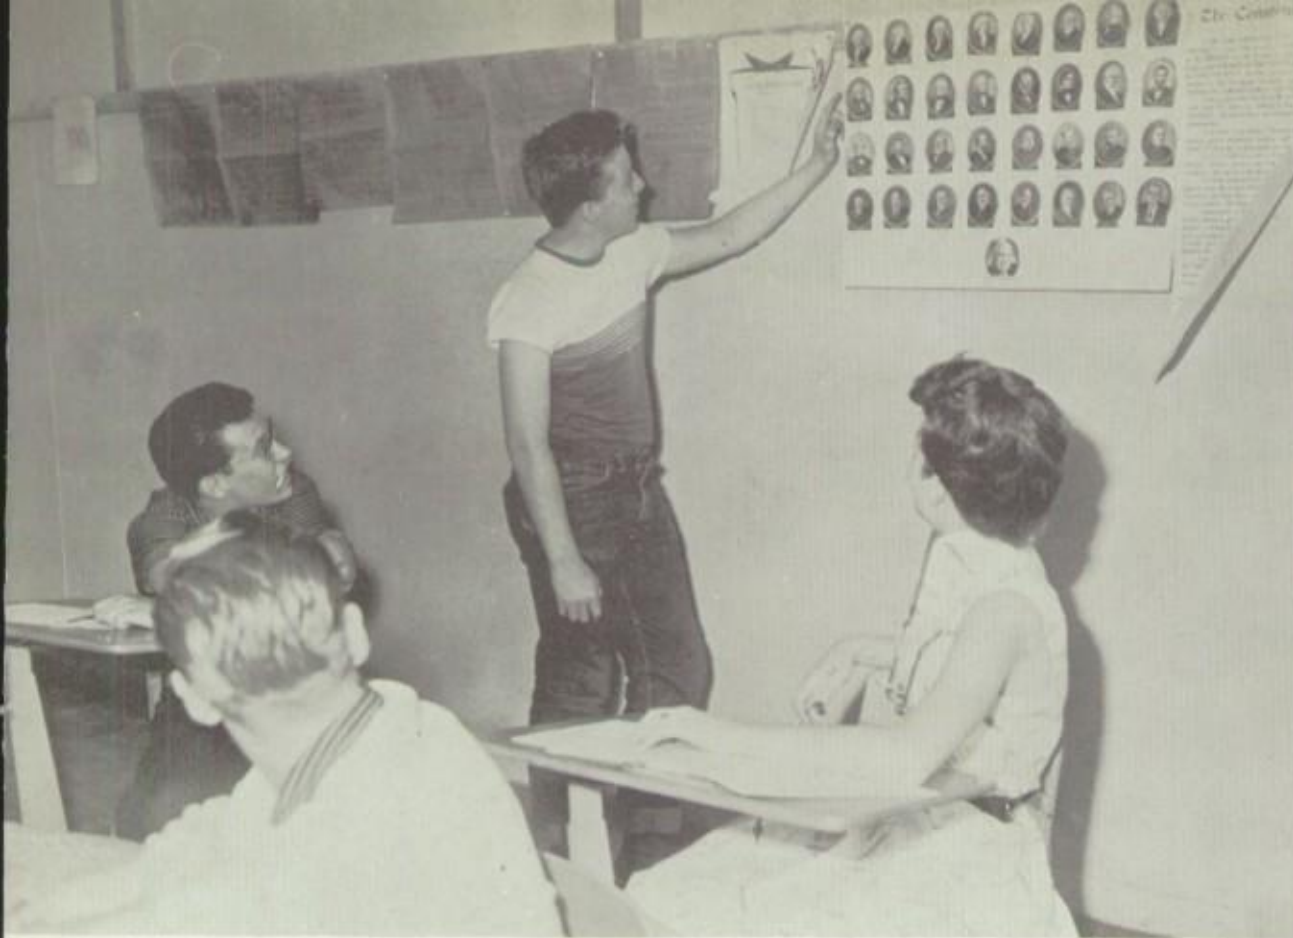

Mrs. James F. Notley makes a study assignment to her civics class.

Mrs. C. N. Dawson looks on as Andrea Hebert gives a report to a civics class from the weekly newspaper Everyweek.

Jim Davidson illustrates a civics class discussion on the presidents of the United States.

Miss Dorothy Blakely discusses a test with her American history students.

never-ending march of events

This department also stresses international problems in order that the students may get a general understanding of people everywhere — at home and across the seas. World situations are discussed without prejudice. These teachers try to give students a better preparation for acting with cooperation in a more peaceful world.

Students in Miss Blakely's American history class study the duties of the Supreme Court. Here, they are shown writing the names of the justices on the board.

Mrs. F. M. McGinn conducts a review with civics students for a test on the Constitution of the United States.

Students gain security

The Business Education Department attempts to place the students in the best possible positions as well as to train them for the job.

Besides typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping, this department also offers clerical practice.

Mr. Vincent Saia, who teaches bookkeeping, observes his class from his office as the student teacher supervises their study. Pictured at right are bookkeeping students Floretta Racca, Jeannette Bernard, and Macklyn Mouton.

In typing, practice makes perfect, and students have frequent speed tests and drills to increase their speed and accuracy. At right, Harold Nugent works on the day's assignment.

Clerical practice students get instruction in filing as well as other office procedures. Here, Madeline Vidrine, Gail Primeaux, and Juanette Thibodeaux work on a project in filing, while Tracy Trahan types a financial report.

Mr. Charles Franciol works on speed problems with his class in algebra.

Students learn to use measuring instruments, applying their knowledge of trigonometry. Above, Robert Theriot uses the angle mirror while Michel Fournet demonstrates the use of the sextant.

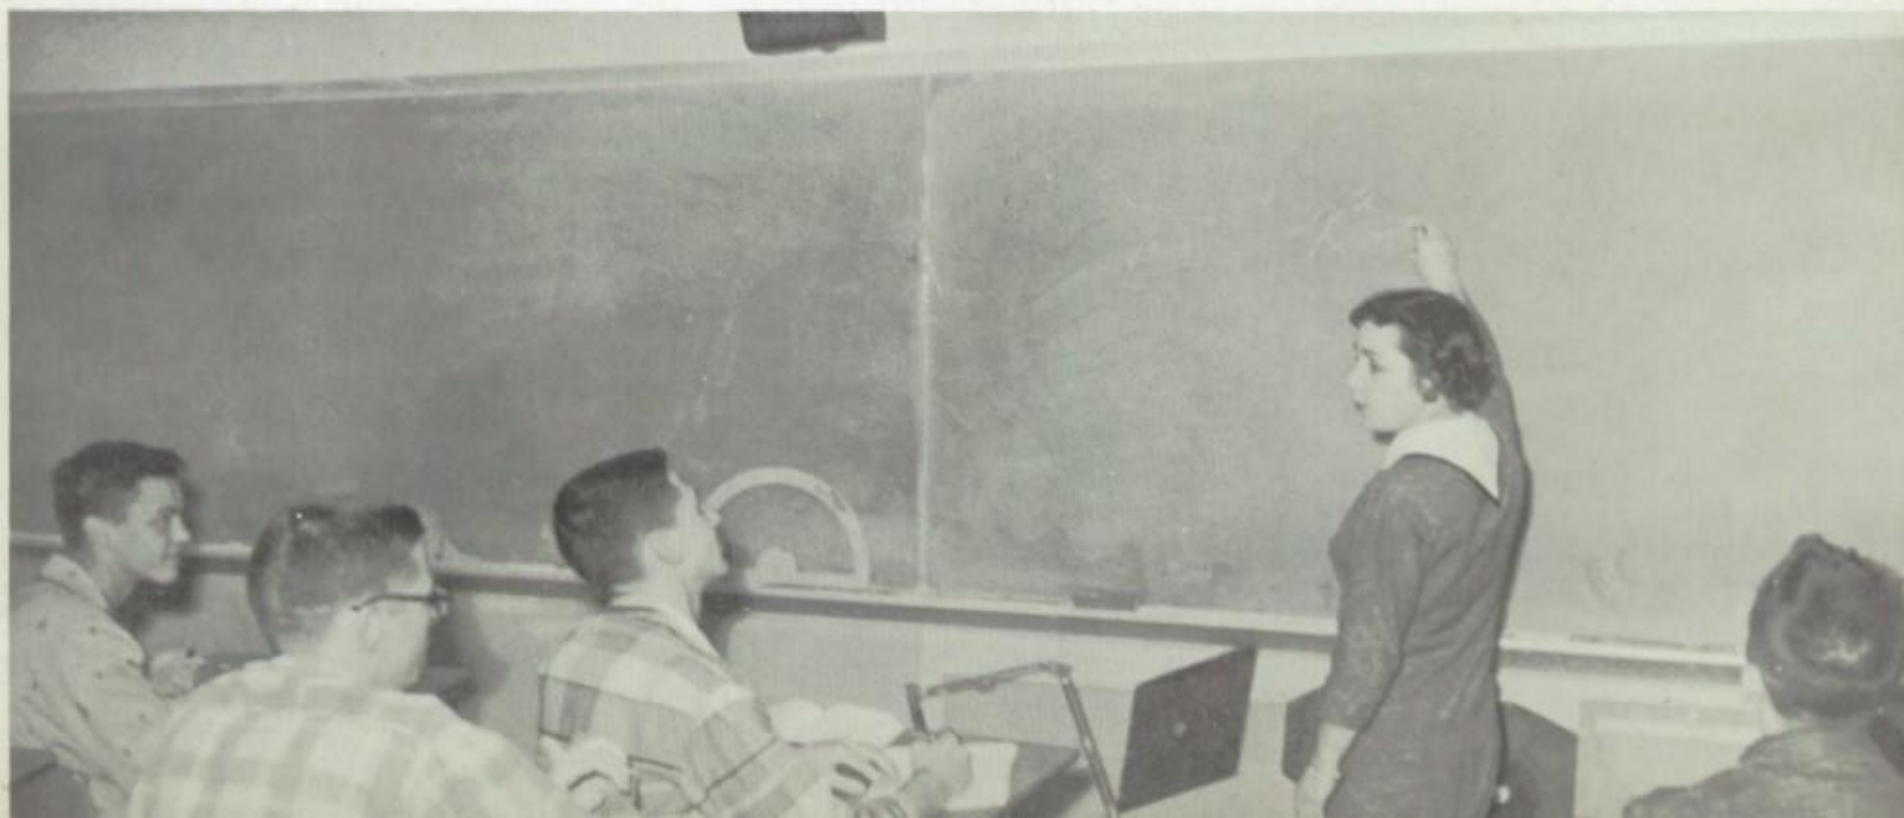

Carroll Dartez works a problem in quadratic equations in algebra class.

Young mathematicians ponder problems

The Mathematics department offers courses in basic math for those students who need a foundation and preparation for college, as well as vocational preparation. For those who want more, the department offers advanced courses in geometry and trigonometry.

Phil Nugent, right, looks on as chemistry students Ray Broussard and S. J. Hemleben conduct an experiment testing for the presence of carbon dioxide.

Wonders of the world unfold before us

In order to help solve the mysteries of our environment and physical world, the science department offers more specialized courses than just general science. These specialized courses in biology, chemistry and physics meet the needs of the students.

Edward Yeagers, Ronald Guidry and Billy Schmitz perform an electrostatic demonstration in physics.

Mr. Joe Gloriosio, supervising teacher of biology and physics, lectures to a class on insects.

Mr. Antoine Hebert demonstrates a problem for a chemistry class.

Homemaking arts are many and varied

Shown above in a discussion of family problems are: Elizabeth Landry, Ossie Jean Robert, Wanda Fike, Shelver Pre-jean, and Marilyn Rodemacher.

The field of homemaking is one of our important courses. LSH students are extremely fortunate in that they are offered experiences and opportunities which few schools surpass.

As well as learning to cook and sew, a girl can learn child care, good grooming, etiquette, home nursing, meal planning and preparation, and consumer buying and budgeting. In keeping with the present day trend, a course in Home and Family Living is offered for junior and senior boys and girls.

Miss Hazel Alpha, supervising teacher of home economics, is pictured at right with her class, discussing types of breakfast.

Proficiency in agriculture is aim of department

Vocational agriculture is a "trade" school for boys who are interested in farming, raising livestock, and general agricultural practices. The students make field trips to farms in the parish to study recognized practice. They also have home projects of livestock, dairying, poultry, gardening, or home beautification and keep detailed records of all business transactions pertaining to their projects.

Physical Education

The activities of the Health and Physical Education department are chosen in regard to human growth, development, and behavior.

In the field of sports, the teachers of this department stress cooperation and sportsmanship.

A tenth grade class is shown above receiving instruction in square dancing, one of the popular activities of this department.

a quick start as other students await their turns.

Miss Catherine Ducharme, above, supervising teacher of Health and Physical Education, also assists with the school's guidance program.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dees, coordinator of the DE program, arranges a showcase in the department.

Making a sales demonstration, Pearl Simon displays ladies' stockings to Nita Guidry, Beverly Trahan, and Marian Boudreaux.

D.E. features on-the-job training

Distributive Education is a relatively new phase in the modern concept of educating young citizens for their role in community life. D. E., as it is called, is the study and on-the-job training of high school students in the field of distribution of goods and services. Students enroll for their regular academic courses in the morning, but in the afternoon and on Saturday, they work at various retail or service stores in Lafayette. The D. E. coordinator, Mrs. Dees, keeps in close touch with each employer to check on the progress of the trainees.

In another sales demonstration, "assistant manager" Carroll Duhon supervises Floretta Racca as she displays socks to "customers" Ronald Rivoire, Dallas LeBlanc, Rodney Brosig.

Melvin Gondron and Robley Guilbeau work on lathes in the shop.

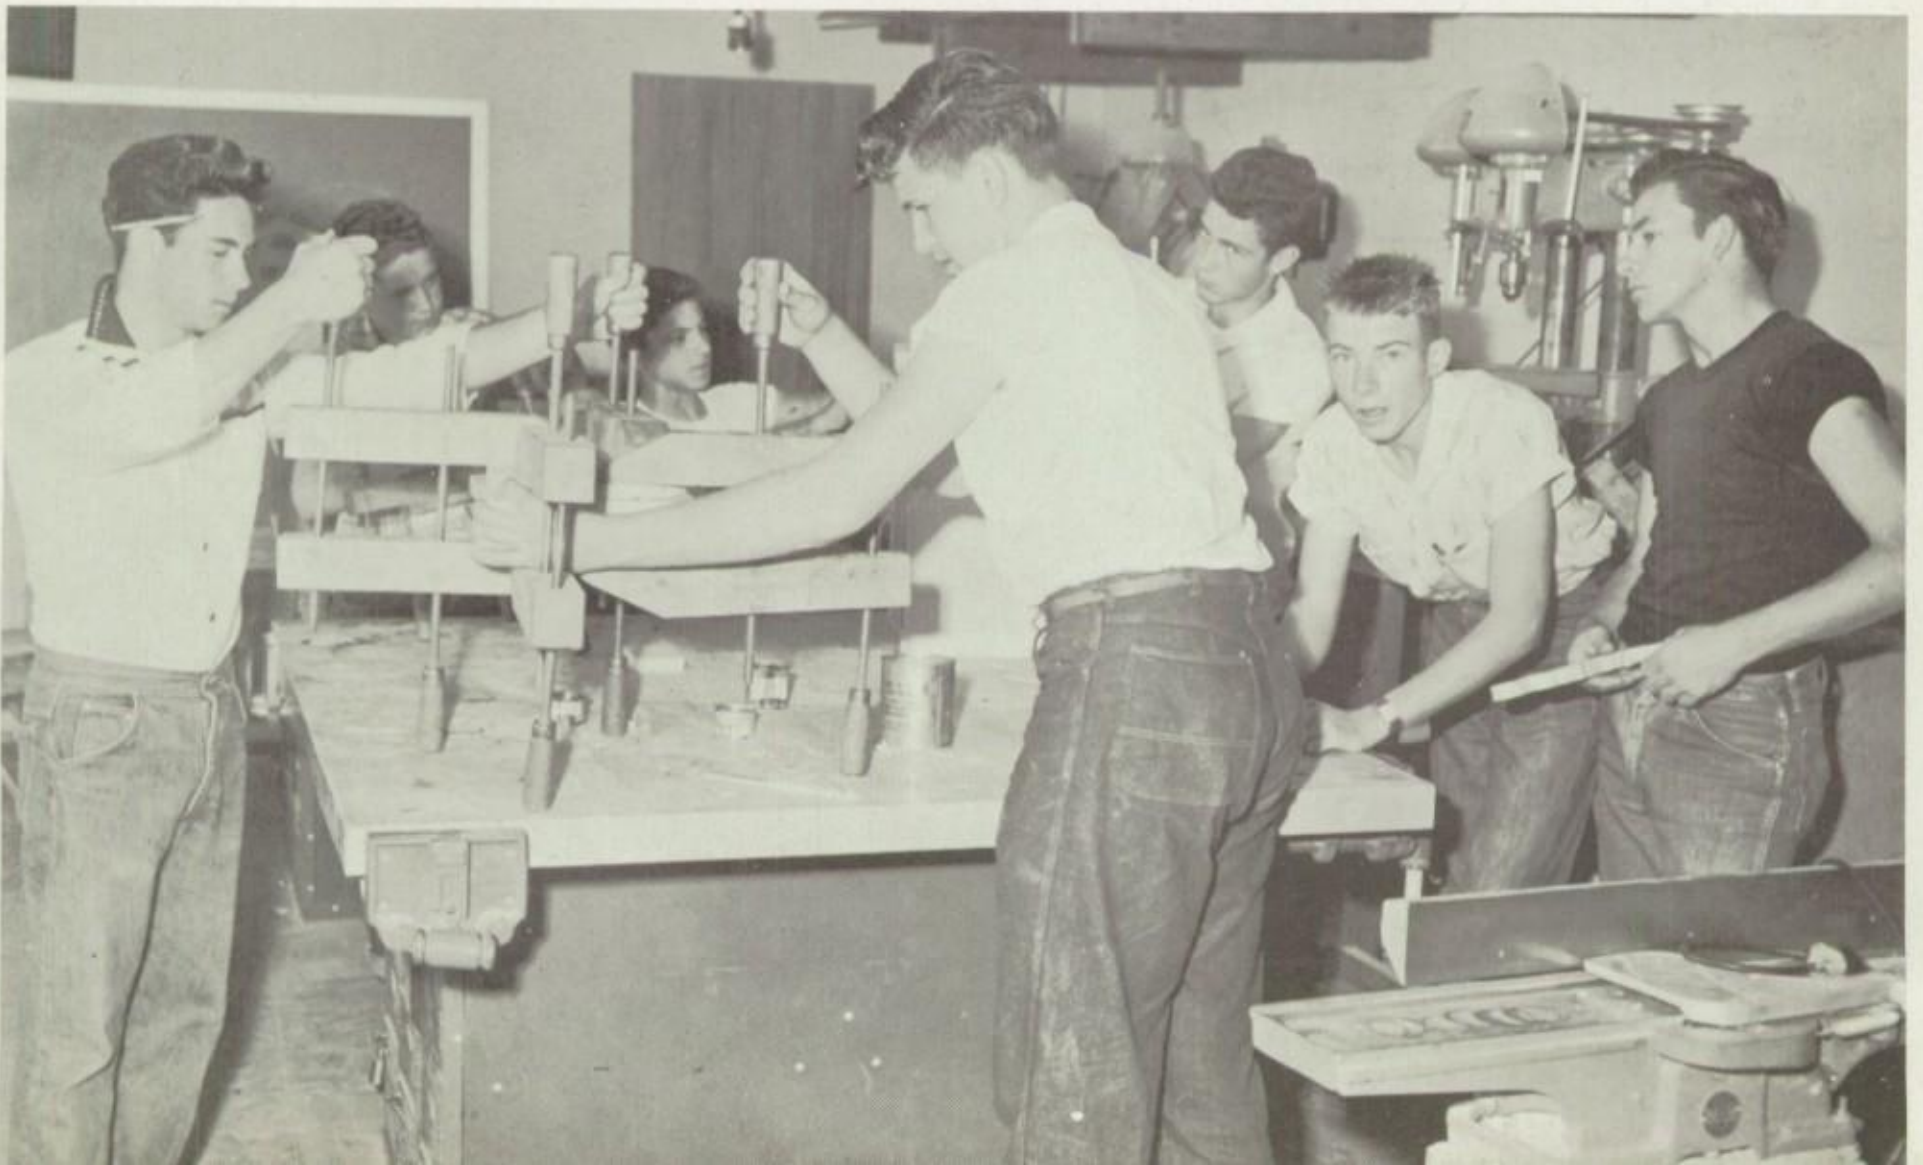

Mr. Valex Richard discusses a bookshelf project with Paul Perret.

Shop offers a variety of arts

The satisfaction of creating things with the hands and, at the same time, learning a skill or trade are two of the primary purposes of the Industrial Arts department. Besides striving better to fill the needs of the individuals, the department stresses safety. The activities are carefully planned, and the materials allotted are ample and excellent. Through courses in woodcraft, boys are taught skills for future use in a career or avocation.

Louis Babin and Gerald Beadle, in the foreground, clamp wood to be turned on a lathe, as other students work on similar projects.

Mrs. James Hanna, above, shows appreciation of student's comments on intelligent "televewing."

At right, dramatics students Calvin Savoie, Jackie Dubois, and Celia Guilbeau rehearse lines for the one-acter, "Pink and Patches."

Speech classes stress communication skills

Effective oral communication, both in everyday and public speaking situations, is the primary purpose of the speech department. Through study and participation in group discussion, public speaking, radio, interpretative reading, and dramatics, students learn the speaking skills that are necessary for success in every phase of life. Besides the general training offered all speech students, many receive additional experience in speaking to civic organizations and in participating in speech tournaments and drama festivals.

Art classes engender appreciation of beauty

The talents of our art department are used in service to the school and community. Through courses in this department, students learn poster-making, art appreciation, water color, oils, charcoal, pastels, and design. The graphic arts used include linoleum block printing; sculpture—in plaster of Paris, wood, and limestone; modeling; ceramics; and mosaics. In the linoleum block printing, introduced to the classes this year, the medium is followed through from cutting to actual printing on material to be used for display or practical purposes.

The musical arts appeal to these

Library offers many services

Important to any school is a library with the varied services it offers the students and faculty. The LSH library with 4,100 volumes and 54 periodicals provides a center for reading, study, and research. For the convenience of the students, conference and study rooms are enclosed in glass and reserved for those doing research work. The librarian and eight student librarians are always ready to help students locate reference materials.

Of particular interest to seniors are the material on colleges and universities, information on armed services, and current career material.

Students make good use of the library facilities. Above, Kathleen Williams locates a reference book with the help of the card catalog, while Shirley Landry checks the globe for an assignment in civics.

School Life

It's just the little things that you remember about a school day . . . the way a hand touched yours, the warm friendliness of your own gang around the locker, the tense moments of a tied score, the good feeling of achievement when someone said, "Nice going." These are the things that you will recall and treasure long after you have forgotten the big occasions. These are the things that make a year unforgettable.

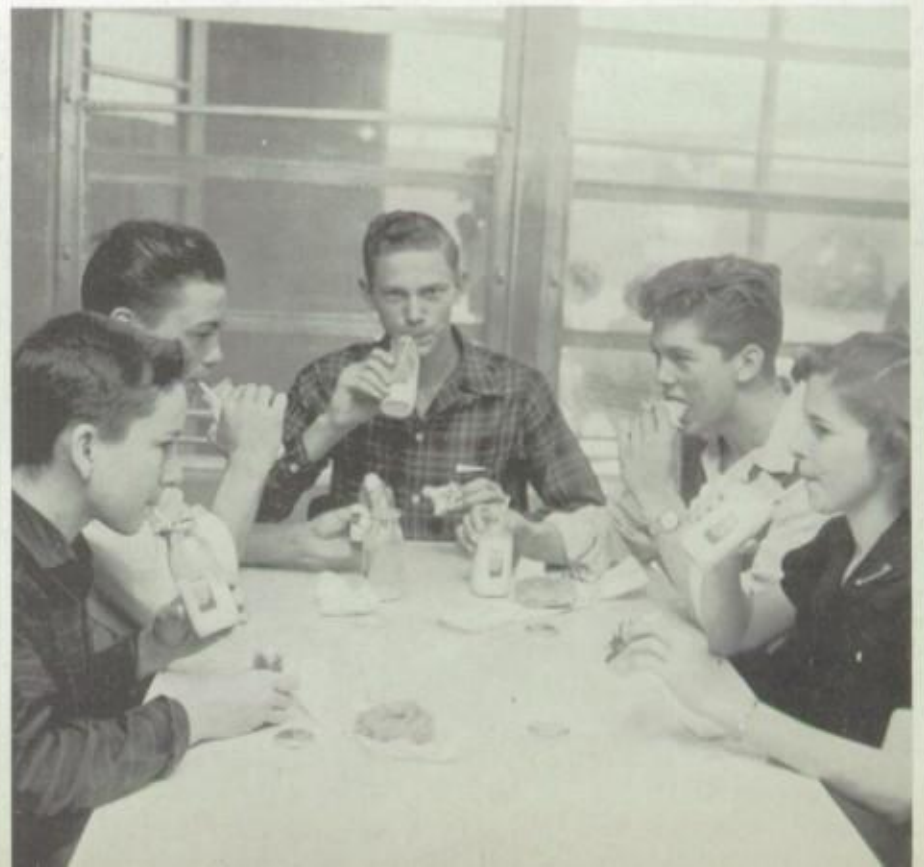

The building begins to stir to life as the busses pull up to the front, bringing students to fill the halls with laughter and happy chatter.

The short time between classes passes all too quickly, and Mrs. Durand tries to persuade Kenny Smotherman to part company with Paula Mackey for just one hour of study.

There is a warm feeling of friendship as students gather in the cafeteria for milk and doughnuts at morning recess. Pictured below are: Otis Derbonne, Gerald Latiolais, Wilbert Noel, Ronald Guidry, and Earline Bernard.

What can a school be but movement and sound?

A last bit of gossip is passed on before the rush to first hour class.

The warm sunshine beckons and students step out on the patio for a breather between classes.

The mad dash to lunch begins as soon as the 11 o'clock hour is over.

First in lunch line are the seniors.

A few moments away from the busy corridors are spent in the formal garden.

our days are active

Afternoon classes are about to start, but there's still time for a short gab fest in the auditorium.

Guide Barbara Goldsmith questions Larry Simon about his passport.

The four o'clock rush for home is fast and furious, and the building is quiet for a few moments waiting for night classes to begin.

FOOTBALL REVIEW

LIONS vs. OPELOUSAS

The first game of the year, the Lions took a jolting defeat by the speed and teamwork of Opelousas. Not really outplayed by Opelousas, the Lions seemed to miss out on the breaks of the game. Despite their fighting hearts, the score still ended with the Lions on the bottom.

LIONS vs. LAGRANGE

Although the Lions held the lead at the half by a brilliant and star-studded play, the Gators again proved to be dominant over the fighting Lions.

LIONS vs. BOLTON

Again and again, the Lions fought desperately to overtake the mighty Bears. Coach Louie Whitman reached deep into his bag of tricks, but his youthful Lions were held off and beaten.

LIONS vs. NICHOLS

Playing on a poorly lighted field, the Lions failed in their passing attack. At the same time the running game of the Rebels strived on to defeat the Lions in a thrilling and rugged ball game by the Lions.

LIONS vs. LAKE CHARLES

Despite the heavily favored Lake Charles Wildcats, the young Lions dominated the first half in play. Then the Cats came to life and the Lions were unable to stop them.

LIONS vs JENNINGS

The Lions' hearts were saddened by this defeat on homecoming night before an impressive crowd. This was a defeat not only in score, but a moral defeat to the youthful Lions.

LIONS vs NEW IBERIA

This was the worst defeat suffered by the Lions physically, for after this game the Lions were weak in both line and backfield. While suffering the defeat, the Lions fought frantically, but were unable to halt the guard-charging backs of the Yellow Jackets.

LIONS vs SULPHUR

The Golden Tornadoes of Sulphur from the beginning ruled over all phases of the game. Running and passing at will, they took a lopsided victory over the injury-racked Lions.

LIONS vs ABBEVILLE

The cold and chilly weather seemed to be the deciding factor for both the Lions and the Wildcats. The game was characterized by fumbles and incompleated passes. At the end of the see-saw battle, the Lions emerged victorious for the first time this year.

LIONS vs CROWLEY

Entering the game again as underdogs but with high spirits, the Lions battled furiously for 3 quarters. Then again, the Lions grew weary and the reserve system of Crowley dominated the final quarter.

organization, democracy is at work

The Student Council, organized nine years ago, is the most highly honored group at LSH. Its officers are elected from the student body in general elections and the representatives are selected from the homerooms.

These courteous students shun publicity, although they deserve much credit for their many fine projects. This year they have put nameplates on the doors to all rooms in school, decorated the circle, helped on the school grounds beautification project, initiated the guide system, continued the student store, and issued a student directory.

The objectives of the Student Council are: To form a better co-operative spirit between the faculty and student body; to promote better school spirit; to aid in the execution of school laws.

With a song in our hearts . . .

Blending harmoniously, the voices of the members of the A Cappella Choir come ringing through the halls of LSH every day. Sometimes the music, being jazz, rocks the rafters and sends the classes to "jumpin'," and other times a far-away look can be seen in the eyes of the students as they listen to a Negro spiritual or a religious anthem.

Not only can their voices be heard around school, but the choir does a limited amount of traveling in and out of town to make appearances.

Editing a yearbook is not all peaches and cream. Trials and tribulations are many as the months slip by. Writing and rewriting copy, taking and retaking pictures, making layouts, identifying pictures, typing copy sheets . . . all add up to a full-time job. But when that deadline has been met, we heave a sigh of relief. All our worries and problems seem to be forgotten, and we only hope our readers will feel as we do . . . that Lion's Din '56 is a lasting reminder of our happy high school days.

Our School Librarians

The Library Club was formally organized in the fall of 1952. The club's three-fold objective is to increase pupil interest and participation in library work and in good reading; to promote friendship and cooperation between students of all library clubs throughout the state; to attract good library assistants and arouse an interest in librarianship as a career.

Among their projects for the 1955-56 school session were the decoration of the lobby at Christmas and representation by a delegation at the state convention of the Louisiana Association of Teen-Age Librarians.

Masque and Gavel is a national organization for the promotion of speech for use, to encourage an interest in all phases of speech activities.

The Lafayette chapter was chartered in the fall of 1953 with ten members. Since that time, members of the organization have been active in debate, radio, oratory, interpretative reading, and dramatics, winning many honors in speech festivals and rallies.

This year the club presented a demonstration play for the dramatics section of the Louisiana Speech Association.

Realizing the importance of social and cultural development, a group of senior girls in 1934 organized Les Amies with this primary aim. Membership in this sub-junior club of the Federated Women's Clubs is open to senior girls of Lafayette Senior High and is based on good character and disposition. Girls in Les Amies have a common characteristic — friendliness. These ambassadors of good will spread their happy laughter and cheery smiles throughout the corridors of LSH.

On their calendar of events may be found various social events, which reach a peak in the fall with the Sadie Hawkins dance, sponsored annually, and in the spring with the tea given in honor of new members of Les Amies and the faculty of LSH.

Social functions are not the only concern of Les Amies, however; for high on their list of activities are many service projects, carried on throughout the year. Baskets of food and clothing are given to needy families several times during the school year. Many are the moments of happiness these girls share as they brighten the days for old and new friends alike.

In the spring of 1955, the girls of Les Amies founded the Quintilla Morgan Anders Scholarship Fund as a loan to worthy girls desiring to attend college or business school or to take nurses' training. It is the desire of Les Amies that this scholarship fund may continue as a realization of the purpose of the club and as a tribute to their founder.

Activities

In early fall, LSH awakes with a start! Immediately that "lived-in" feeling rolls into her corridors, accompanied by a cycle of untold activities. She witnesses gala scenes . . . soft lights, swishing skirts, tapping heels . . . those never-to-be-forgotten nights of Homecoming and Sadie Hawkins . . . the festive spirit of Miss Merry Christmas and Carnival. In the spring, the annual Style Show and Soc Hop combine to set a pace of perpetual speed and usher in the last lap of the race for time. The Student Council begins electioneering for the coming year, the juniors start feverish preparations for the prom, and the seniors continue to hop "to and fro" planning last minute details of commencement activities.

Working . . . playing . . . growing . . . this is the boisterous life of our LSH.

The Lions' Din annually sponsors the Miss Merry Christmas Dance. The revealing of the identity of Miss Merry Christmas is the highlight of this gala affair. Miss Merry Christmas for 1955, selected by popular vote of the student body, was the surprised Toni Thibodeaux, F.F.A. sweetheart. Toni and her escort, Pat Owens, are crowned Miss M. C. and Mr. Happy New Year by last year's winners, Beverly Ashy and Brumby Sessions.

... and beauty reigns at Christmas.

After the coronation ceremony comes the court dance, preceding general dancing.

Color and glamour

The beauty and glamour of old New Orleans set the scene for the 1956 Carnival ball, the twenty-first in a long line of spectacular pageants produced by the students of Lafayette.

Using the medium of flashbacks, through an old diary found in an attic, the pageant presented scenes from the life of Queen Camilla—a voodoo scene witnessed during her childhood; the thrill of reigning over Carnival; the first reunion of the Carnival court at an opera party ten years after the ball; the second reunion at a sidewalk cafe; and finally a street scene in which the elderly Camilla shows her grandchildren the splendor of Carnival.

On the opposite page above, the court is pictured viewing the spectacle presented for their entertainment; and below are the court jesters, Jo Wharton and Earl Sandefur.

Marilyn Montgomery and Donald Begnaud are shown at the swing, which proved to be a main attraction at the prom, May 21.

As the year closed and the Seniors prepared to leave, the Juniors burst into a sudden rush of activity, preparing for the annual prom. One of the biggest ever held at our school, the prom provided an exciting start for the activities of Senior Week. The theme of "Apple Blossom Time" was carried out in the delicate pink and white blossoms decorating the gym, in the glittering wishing well centering the dance floor, and in the huge rope swing entwined with blossoms.

Only two days after the prom, the Seniors held their traditional banquet at Toby's Oak Grove. The South Seas decor of Toby's keyed the "Tropical Night" theme of the banquet. For many Seniors, this was the last such gathering with their classmates, but they tried to hide their sadness behind friendly smiles.

Every year the Honor Society sponsors an honors program at which students receive recognition for their scholastic achievements. Members of the Honor Society, who must maintain an average of 96 or higher, are introduced; and students having an average of 90 or above in the tenth through the twelfth grades are honored in a tapping ceremony performed by the top-ranking students of each grade.

Awards Night is held annually to present awards to seniors who have earned recognition in scholarship, leadership, and athletics.

In Appreciation to

Mrs. L. B. Portier

Now that we have closed the doors on another year at LSH we, the Lion's Din staff, would like to express our gratitude to Mrs. L. B. Portier, our loyal sponsor. When circumstances were such that she had to leave Lafayette at mid-term, Mrs. Portier showed her loyalty to the yearbook, the school, and the community by returning during the spring months to push us and our copy to meet the publisher's deadlines. We feel that it was through her presence and untiring efforts that this yearbook became a realization.

There are many others we wish to thank:

- . . . Mr. Fred Elsing, Taylor Publishing Company representative, for his patience and understanding in helping us keep this page a secret from Mrs. Portier.
- . . . Our photographer, Mr. Calvin Blue, for his professional help and sincere friendliness.
- . . . Mrs. James Hanna who has guided us while our sponsor was away.
- . . . Mr. Berger, the faculty, and the students of LSH for their cooperation through picture-making and other trying times.
- . . . The many friends of LSH without whose faith in Lafayette Senior High shown by their support and encouragement throughout the year, this publication would never have gone to press. It is our hope that Lion's Din '56 will help strengthen the bond between our school and our community.
